LAWYER A SUICIDE AS WIFE HUNTS FOR HIM

Franklyn Paddock, Returning Home While Wife Was Out Searching City to Find Him, Ends His Life with Gas—Had Been in Ill Health.

Servants Say He Reached Home About an Hour After Wife, Worried at His Absence, Had Gone Out to Look for Him—Cheerful When Last Seen.

While his wife was riding around town all night in a hansom cab looking for him, Franklyn Paddock, a widely known, young lawyer, committed suicide by gas at his home, No. 17 West Tenth street. The body was found before 8 o'clock to-day, but Mrs. Paddock did not appear at the house until after noon. She said that the first news she had of her husband's death she gained from the afternoon newspapers, which she heard the boys crying on the street.

Mr. Paddock had an office at No. 32 Liberty street, a good practice and every encouragement for the future. Five years ago he married Mrs. Louise Barrett, a widow with a daughter. The child is said to be living with relatives of her mother in Boston.

Policeman Smith, of the Mercer street station, was summoned to the West Tenth street house early to-day by Kate O'Keefe, a maid employed in the Paddock household. She told him that Mr. Paddock had committed suicide by gas in the bathroom and that Mrs. Paddock had not been home since last night.

Surprised at Her Absence.

Relatives of Mr. Paddock reached the house in answer to telephone messages and expressed surprise at the absence of Mrs. Paddock. Mrs. Louis J. Foster, of No. 17 East fifty-fifth street, a sister of Mr. Paddock, took charge of the house, and after talking to the servant and others issued the following statement to the reporters:

"All that Mr. Paddock's sister knows is that Mr. Paddock was found dead in the bathroom with the gas turned on, whether accidentally or on purpose she does not know. His wife is absent from home and she knows of no quarrel."

Ans Hogan and Kate O'Keefe, servants in the house, were questioned closely by the police. From them it

NISSEN IS FOUND DEAD IN HIS FOOL-KILLER NO. 3

Crazy Craft, with Body of the Eccentric Navigator Aboard, Beached at Town in Michigan—Rescuing Party Had Started to His Assistance.

CHICAGO, Dec. 1.—A despatch from Stevensville, Mich., says that the body of Peter Nissen, inventor and navigator of the crazy contrivance which he called the "Fool-Killer No. 3," was found this afternoon in his boat on the beach there.

Few believed that Nissen's voyage could end in any other manner. Those few of an eccentric turn as Nissen. Their minds run in channels that evolve such things as his "Fool-Killer" and a peculiar joy in taking one out of a thousand of coming alive out of some daring, insane feat.

Nissen set forth from here on Tuesday afternoon from the Chicago avenue pier. A strange set of men helped him inflate his half boat and half balloon contrivance, and sent up a great cheer when they pushed it into the water. The last seen of Nissen alive was when he climbed down into the Fool Killer and shouted to those who were helping him to the next world: "Let her go, boys!" Half an hour later the Fool Killer was lost in the darkness.

Nissen had no means of keeping himself warm nor in extremity could he have renewed his supply of air. Warmth and air, so far as the Fool Killer was concerned, were beyond the inventor's ken.

He had three days' provisions with him, and was confident of crossing the lake, although a storm had whipped the great lake into a tempestuous sea when he made his start.

His friends on shore watched his craft shoot through the waves and made a shuttlecock on the angry waters. It went to sea at a rapid rate and was soon lost to sight.

When twelve hours had passed and no tidings had been received of Nissen

NEW ORLEANS, Dec. 1.—Evenly balanced fields are named to go in the six events at the Crescent City track this afternoon.

Frank Hase was among the arrivals from New York this morning. He will remain here a few days before continuing his trip to California. There was a strong tip out on Minnie in the open Valley. Hase said that she was the best he could do was a race second choice, but the smart set would have none of them, and made Morris's Sponge Cake the man of the hour. Hase said that he was a play that forced the price against the fly from 25 to 1 to 15 to 1. Sponge Cake went away in front, and opening his lead in the stretch, he was not to be beaten. He was a strong rush, pressed out Minnie and handily beat her for the place.

Sponge Cake Good Thing.

The half-mile dash for two-year-olds furnished a surprise for the form players and incidentally the occasion for a generous win for a select few. Allista's Pawtucket was the favorite for the race, while the smart set made the second choice, but the smart set would have none of them, and made Morris's Sponge Cake the man of the hour. Hase said that he was a play that forced the price against the fly from 25 to 1 to 15 to 1. Sponge Cake went away in front, and opening his lead in the stretch, he was not to be beaten. He was a strong rush, pressed out Minnie and handily beat her for the place.

Katie Powers Wins at Last.

Judge Himes was favorite at odds on in the mile and a sixteenth, but was outrun at all stages of the journey. The best he could do was a race second choice, but the smart set would have none of them, and made Morris's Sponge Cake the man of the hour. Hase said that he was a play that forced the price against the fly from 25 to 1 to 15 to 1. Sponge Cake went away in front, and opening his lead in the stretch, he was not to be beaten. He was a strong rush, pressed out Minnie and handily beat her for the place.

Dick Bernard Wins.

Dick Bernard, the top weight in the handicap and favorite in the field of four, made a runaway race of it, sprinting in front of Ahola, Rankin and Jake Greenberg. Ahola moved up to him in the run down the backstretch, but it was too late, as Bernard was being eased up at the end.

Mamzelle All the Way.

A bad lot of selling platens with weight up made a difficult guessing proposition of the fifth race. Burning Glass was made favorite, but after being in the chase of Mamzelle died away and finished outside the money. Mamzelle raced away from her field from the start and was never in danger of being beaten, winning in a gallop with a lighter second and Harry New third.

CURIOSITY OF CROWD KEPT MRS. CHADWICK PRISONER IN OFFICE

Heroine of High Finance Annoyed by Wall Street Throng Anxious to Get a Glimpse of Her Hides at Lawyer's Until Dark, and Then Goes to Hotel.

$65,000 BONUS DEMANDED FOR LOAN TO HER OF $125,000.

Newton Sued for $190,000, but Counsel Says Woman Cut Out Bonus Claim—Newton Accepts $78,000 Cash Now—$50,000 to Be Paid Next Year.

HOW MRS. CHADWICK SPENT THE MONEY SHE BORROWED.

Cassie L. Chadwick borrowed on such "securities" as she had to offer more than $200,000, according to admitted claims. She disputes another claim which would bring the amount up to $1,000,000. How she spent this sum has been a mystery except to those who have watched her career in Cleveland. Here is the way a part of the money went:

Fitted out her home in almost barbaric splendor.

Gave a gala ball to her servant and more magnificent furs herself.

Bought eight pianos at once as presents to friends.

Bought diamonds by wholesale. Bank President Beckwith says he saw jewels in her possession worth $500,000.

Took twelve young society girls of Cleveland on trip to Europe.

Brought party from Cleveland to New York in special car to see "Farsfall."

After agreeing to settle Herbert B. Newton's claim against her of $190,000 for $78,000 in cash, payable to-day, and $50,000, payable in a year from date, Mrs. Cassie L. Chadwick of Cleveland, drove from the Holland House this afternoon to the Central Trust Company building, at No. 54 Wall street, spent about five minutes in the offices of the bank, and then went to the sixth floor, to the law offices of Butler, Notman, Joine & Mynderse. She stayed there until dark, because a lot of people who had heard of her presence in the building gathered in the corridors in the hope of getting a glimpse of her.

Mr. Joine, of this law firm, is attorney for Andrew Carnegie.

The presence of Mrs. Chadwick in Wall street caused quite a ripple of excitement. The corridors of the building quickly filled with the curious, and police had to be secured to clear them away. As long as any one was outside Mrs. Chadwick declined to leave the office. She sent a clerk out to pay her cabman and later had luncheon taken in.

Mrs. Chadwick bolts Newton's claim down to $128,000, and she declares she will not pay him another cent. The arrangement is evidently satisfactory to Mr. Newton and his attorneys, for they declared this afternoon they had agreed to the terms of Mrs. Chadwick and that everything was all right.

Edmund W. Powers, Mrs. Chadwick's New York attorney, verified the report as to the basis of settlement this afternoon.

WAIVES DEMAND FOR $65,000 BONUS.

"Mr. Newton's claim is $190,000," said Mr. Powers, "but he will receive but $78,000 at this time. Mrs. Chadwick expects to have all the necessary funds this afternoon and will meet Mr. Newton to make payment. I will not say where the meeting will be, as it is not desirable to have a lot of people present."

"To explain the reduction in the Newton claim I want to say that $65,000 of the sum he asked consists of bonuses which he was to get for

LAWYER'S WIFE A SHOPLIFTER?

Husband of "Mrs. Hobart" Refuses to Come Into Court and She Is Held for Trial, Despite Efforts to Quash Case.

Magistrate Whitman, in Jefferson Market Court, this afternoon called the case of a woman calling herself Mrs. Margaret Hobart, of Jersey City, arrested a few days ago for shoplifting. The woman had been arraigned in the morning session of court, but an adjournment was taken to give her attorney, Mark Alter, a chance to establish that she belongs to a wealthy and prominent family, has been suffering from illness for three years, and is irresponsible.

Mr. Alter was told by the magistrate that if he could bring the husband and physician of the woman into court to substantiate the claim made for her a discharge would be ordered.

Neither the husband nor the physician was in court, but Mr. Alter produced evidence to show that the proprietor of the store which the woman was accused of robbing had agreed not to prosecute her.

"Admitting that the proprietor of the store has withdrawn the charge, or is willing to withdraw the charge," said the Magistrate to Mr. Alter, "an order of dismissal issued by this Court would look like a law for the rich and a law for the poor. Recently we have been urged by the department store people to punish impartially all shoplifters."

Mr. Alter said he had come to the District Attorney, who had refused to interfere in the case. Magistrate Whitman refused to take the responsibility of dismissing the case and ordered it taken to the Court of Special Sessions, holding the money in $200 bail. Mr. Alter deposited the amount in cash with the City Chamberlain.

The woman was a very plain and

WOMAN FOUGHT WITH BURGLAR

Mrs. Blumson Found Him in Her Bedroom and Grappled with Him, but He Struck Her With a Jimmy.

Mrs. Sarah Blumson, who occupies the top flat of the house at No. 2002 Eighth avenue, returned there late this afternoon to find a strange man in her bedroom. The man had packed most of her valuables and was about to leave when Mrs. Blumson surprised him.

Without any preliminaries the woman grappled with the thief and the two fell to the floor together. While they were struggling the man struck Mrs. Blumson twice over the head with a heavy Jimmy. He then made his escape to the street.

Mrs. Blumson got up and followed as fast as she could. Once in the street, she saw the man a half a block away. She yelled for the police as loudly as she could, and Policeman Schriever took up the chase. He caught the fugitive at the corner of One Hundred and Thirtieth street, and Eighth avenue and took him to the West One Hundred and Twenty-fifth street station.

There the man was searched, and a Jimmy, thirty keys and a large knife were found on him. He gave the name of Frank Richards, and said that he had lived at Third avenue and Twenty-third street.

Quitted, she appeared to take little interest in the proceedings. Mr. Alter said that her husband is a lawyer, "practicing not more than 100 miles from New York," and that he had refused to come into court for fear that he would be recognized.

MORE SHOOTING AT LEITER'S MINES

Firing Goes On, but Preparations Are Made to Rush in More Non-Union Men to Take Strikers' Places.

DUQUIN, Ill., Dec. 1.—According to Sheriff Stein, an attack was made on Zeigler last night. Firing began at the pumping station, two miles north of Zeigler, and spread back to the mining town, where Stein said at least three hundred shots were fired. The machine guns responded promptly.

All the militiamen were called out and the Sheriff's son called for a pass in Zeigler, but the non-union miners would not respond. Sheriff Stein said that he could not say whether most of the fighting was from the inside or outside of the town. It is not known whether any one was injured.

Assistant Adj. Gen. Reese, who is at Zeigler, said to-day that the shooting last night was of the same character as previous firings, continuing at irregular periods. The militia, according to Col. Reese, took no part in the shooting last night. Col. Reese left for Springfield today to make his report to Gov. Yates on the situation.

The Zeigler Coal Company has been concluded to rush into the mining town as many men as are necessary to work the plant to its fullest capacity. Last evening thirty-five skilled miners were brought in from St. Louis over the St. Louis Valley Railroad by way of Des Moines. They arrived in two special coaches and were drawn directly into the stockades. The cars were held up with United States Marines and private guards furnished by the company.

Word was received from Zeigler that six of the twenty-two Pennsylvania miners who were shipped into Zeigler Tuesday night last night managed to creep out under cover of darkness and were met by agents of the United Mine-Workers, who furnished them transportation back to Pennsylvania.
